AT THE CAPITAL.

A political excitement largely overshadowed.

A Most Interesting Interview with a Number of Prominent Officials—How the Strains of Public Life are Overcome.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The absorbing excitement of Congress and the interest caused by varying schemes and various measures have been overshadowed of late in Washington by the revelation of the alarming death rate among public men, and the additional fact that in nearly every case the cause of the death can be traced to one source. Congressmen, Sprague's dangerous and long-continued illness, the sudden death of Senator Plumb, and Mr. Blaine's constant ill health have mustered from the grave the memory of an army of public men who have died in the harness.

Senator Beck dropped senseless in the Potomac Depot on the exact spot
where President Garfield was shot.

Secretary Folger worked to the last,
and died without warning.

Secretary Chandler was found dead in his bed at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

The Hon. Hannibal Hamlin died at the club while chatting with his friends.

Minister Pendleton passed away while seated in a railroad train.

Senator Charles Sumner, Massachusetts
pride, died suddenly, working faithfully to the end of his life.

Senator Simon Cameron feels the mysterious creepings of paralysis, and falls in the arms of his friends.

Salmon P. Chase passed away peacefully while seated at his desk with his pen in his hand.

It has dawned upon the public men of the country, the heads of departments
in Washington, and discerning people generally, that there must be some one great reason for all of these untimely deaths. It was with a view, if possible, of solving this question that I called upon a number of prominent men, the results of which are given herewith.

It is well known that one of the nation's great men is Gen. B. F. Tracy, Secretary of the Navy, and that no man in Washington has worked harder, more persistently, or more effectively.

His timely and efficient work in building up
our national defense when the question of war with Chili was being agitated,
and his necessary have brought a great strain upon his system. He was found, however, at the head of the Navy Department, and in very good humor.

Referring to the subject Gen. Tracy said:
"I am in good health and spirits at present. Several years ago, however, I was so fully impressed with the idea that I had uric acid in my blood that I took good care and used medicine to prevent its increase or continuance."

"May I ask, General, what course you adopted?"

"I had heard of many things, but I determined to try one especially. I thought that was some time since I was well, to-day, although I am still taking the same medicine, which is Warner's Safe Cure."

"I am a doctor, Governor, the Chief of the First Division of the Comptroller's
Office of the United States Treasury, said."

"I have had an unusual opportunity to watch the condition of public men and the strains which public life brings.
Many prominent men break down suddenly, and while this may also be true of other walks in life, it is especially true of Washington."

"I have shown that one remedy has proven more beneficial for the strains of life in the case of public men than any other known remedy. That remedy is Warner's Safe Cure."

"The most wonderful instance of the power of this remedy is that of Mr.
J. Henderson Wilkinson, the well-known pension attorney. His restoration to health through its use was simply marvellous. I myself believe in it implicitly."

Congressman J. C. Belden, of New York, when approached upon the subject, said:

"Ex-Governor Alvord of Syracuse,
N. Y., and also ex-Speaker of the House, furnished the most wonderful instance of the fact that a public man could preserve the strains of public life and yet live to a green old age. Few men have ever been sicker than Senator Alvord was, but he is now hale and hearty. His recovery is due entirely to Warner's Safe Cure, which is certainly all the commendation of any discovery
that could be required."

Mr. L. H. Eggleston, Judiciary Division,
Comptroller's Office, United States
Treasury, said:

"Ten years ago I was ill—very ill with a disease pronounced by my attendant physicians to be incipient Bright's disease. The treatment failed to benefit me, and I grew steadily and alarmingly worse. Under the advice of friends I began to use Warner's Safe Cure, and have been in perfect health ever since.
I am glad to state this, because it may save the life of others."

Senator B. K. Bruce cordially answered
inquiries:

"My gratitude is due to Hon. H. H.
Warner, manufacturer of the Warner
Safe Cure, for the wonderful recovery which I have experienced through the use of his medicine. I am well to-day, and believe many public men might preserve their health and prolong their lives by the use of this great remedy."

The same sentiment can be found all over Washington, and there is scarcely a desk in the Treasury or other departments where a bottle of this remedy cannot be found. Its popularity here is due wholly to what it has accomplished.

"To PRINTER.—Here insert date of the eggs.

PREPARED FOR AN ACCIDENT.

Passengers on a Ferryboat Put on Life Preservers as a Precaution.

Any one could see that they were
"pa, ma and son," and that this was their first ferryboat trip. They walked just ahead of me going up the steps. The first thing they did was to go all over the boat asking questions of everybody. I kept them in sight. When at last they took seats on the rear guard I sat near them. By that time we were half way across the bay.

"Lands! What 'er stream!" exclaimed ma, looking at the stretch of water between us and Oakland.

"Wouldn't be much fun if we upset," remarked the son.

"Gracious! I never thought up that," exclaimed ma in a startled voice.

"Ever 'er accidents?" asked pa,
looking toward me.

"Not often," I said, "and if there should be they are always there." I pointed to the life preservers that were hanging above us.

"What are they?" asked ma curiously.

I explained. The trio arose to get a nearer view. Pa took one of the life preservers down.

"Well, now," exclaimed ma, "how on air would yer get into it?"

Pa read the printed directions
pasted on the outside very slowly.

"Let's jist try 'er on," suggested ma eagerly. "Here, son, you turn around here."

There was a feeble remonstrance on the son's part, to which not the slightest attention was paid. In a few moments he was arrayed in a life preserver, to his parents' intense satisfaction.

"Jist git down another one, pa,"
said ma, "I'll see if I can put it on."

After a good many struggles she succeeded in doing so. "Now, pa,"
she said complacently, "you try one."

Nothing loath pa obeyed, and soon
he stood proudly beside her.

"Spoke we jist kep 'em on till we lan," suggested ma.

This they agreed to do.

"No knowin what'll happen," pa
said significantly.

And there they sat until the boat landed, totally oblivious to everything but their own satisfaction—so glad that they were prepared for anything that might happen.

As I left the ferry they were helping each other take off their life preservers.—New Orleans Picayune.

Owens the Battlefield Now.

Sergeant George Munroe, of the police department, while riding on a street car engaged in conversation with a stranger, in the course of which the sergeant announced himself as a Harrison man.

"And why?" asked the stranger.

"Because I fought under Harrison,"
was the reply.

"Were you in the Atlanta campaign, and do you remember the battle of Ezra Church?" asked the stranger with considerable earnestness.

"I was and I do; the engagement of my regiment—the One Hundred and Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry
—at that place is marked on the regimental flag as 'Battle of Utoy Creek.'
They are one and the same."

"Well, I own that battlefield now.
My name is Stone—Dr. Stone—and I am glad to have met a man who had bullet holes fired at him on the site of my residence, and by the way," said the doctor, "I have in my pocket some of the minie balls which I recently unearthed near my house. Perhaps you would like one as a souvenir.
Here it is."

The sergeant took the proffered bullet, and if it were gold he would not value it more.—Boston Transcript.

Action of Cheese on Nickel.

A singular fact with regard to an unsuspected property of cheese,
which has been accidentally discovered, is interesting to chemists aside from its hygienic bearings. It appears that nickel plated ware, which is deservingly in favor with housekeepers on account of its durability, its handsome appearance and the ease with which it is cleaned, is attacked more energetically by cheese
than even by vinegar or lactic acid.

All kinds of cheese are found to produce this effect in the same degree; even when dry any of them will eat into a nickel plated silver in less than twelve hours. Since ordinary cheese shows a decidedly neutral reaction when treated with litmus paper, it was supposed that the trifling amount of lactic acid which it contains would be insufficient to account for the phenomenon.

This assumption, however, turns out to be erroneous, for, as the result of direct experiment, it is found that nickel is speedily corroded by lactic acid.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pouring Out a Libation.

When opening a bottle of wine the waiter first pours a little into your host's glass. Why? Is it to cleanse the bottle of anything which passes off with the pouring of the first glass?
No. Away back in feudal times it was a custom to. In these times it told a man's guests that if his flagon of wine was poisoned the contents of his own leather would prove it. So if a guest saw his host drink without ill results he was safe to conclude that the wine was all right and the poison might proceed.—Notes and Queries.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SONOMA, OCTOBER 8, 1892.

H. H. GRADICE - EDITOR.

WE DENY THE ASSERTION.

A county exchange has referred to Mr. Cady as a supervisor from Santa Rosa. It is true that Mr. Cady has always been a good friend to this city. He has never acted as if he thought there should be discrimination against the town because it is the county seat and our people will remember his faithfulness. At the same time he has been true to his own district and has secured for his constituency there more favors than they ever received under any two previous administrations—Santa Rosa Republican.

We deny the assertion. Mr. Cady has not been true to his district and for proof of this assertion we will refer the editor of the Republican to the tax-payers of Sonoma Valley, regardless of political affiliations. The editor of the Sonoma Index-Tribune is a Republican and supported and voted for Mr. Cady four years ago, but he will never do so again.

True to his district is good! But how about that petition circulated a couple of years ago and signed by almost every tax-payer in Sonoma and Vallejo and the other Townships of the county, praying Mr. Cady not to vote for the Hall of Records scheme? Is it not on record that, notwithstanding the united protests of that constituency, he thrust the petition aside with disdain and voted just the opposite way from which the people, who had elected him as their servant, desired him to vote? How about that Map business? Who was it that farthered that infamous scheme, which sought to compel the tax-payers of Sonoma county to pay $40,000 for a $3,500 job. Was it not this Supervisor who had so much love for his constituency? This man true to his own district? Why, Mr. Editor of the Republican, you are talking through your hat!

Political Points.

W. H. Porterfield of Cloverdale, Democratic nominee for Sheriff, was in town on Friday and Saturday of last week. Mr. Porterfield is highly spoken of by his friends and neighbors in Cloverdale, where he is best known. While in Sonoma he made many friends by his courtesy and manly address.

Mr. T. C. Putnam, Republican nominee for Supervisor of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships, was in town last Wednesday. Mr. Putnam is making many friends in Sonoma Township by his dignified and gentlemanly ways. He is a thorough business man and is in every way competent for the position.

Somers B. Fulton, Republican nominee for County Clerk, was in town several days the past week making the acquaintance of Sonoma Valley people. Mr. Fulton will poll a heavy vote in this section of the county. He is well qualified for the position and we are sure if the people elect him they will never have cause to regret it. There is no reason why a Democrat should not vote for him as well as a Republican. If elected he will look out for the interests of the people and run the office in a non-partisan way.

The genial, whole-souled, accommodating Capt. Stofen was in town in attendance upon the Democratic meeting on Friday night of last week. Judging by the way his old Sonoma friends grasped him by the hand he is just as popular as of old when he and his pleasant wife were the life of Sonoma Valley. A four years residence in Santa Rosa has not caused the pleasant remembrance of the past to be forgotten by his old Sonoma friends. We forgot to state that the Captain is running for another term as County Treasurer of Sonoma county.

In British Columbia two gold-seekers, William Corlett of Galveston and Henry Gosford, formerly of St. Paul, have met a terrible fate. While out hunting they were suddenly attacked by a lion and badly wounded, one of them seriously. A companion sought to take the two to camp. At night he started for camp for aid, leaving the two wounded men surrounded by fire, as a protection against the wild beasts, which were heard all about them. When the party from camp reached the place they found that Gosford, who had gone for water, had been attacked by wild animals, killed and his body partly devoured. Corlett had, evidently, tried to rise and give aid to his companion, but was so weakened that he had fallen across the dying fire and had been literally roasted alive.

Something to Remember.

Space in a newspaper represents no more or less than a commodity offered for sale by the publishers, they being no more nor less than merchants. Publishers figure upon the expenses incident to running a paper in estimating the value of space in their paper. The price or cost of space in a paper is not guess work, nor simply a price fixed without reference to cost and circulation, but on the other hand it is a value ascertained by close figuring on the expenses incident to making such space possible. It is not approximation, but an actual and true value, allowing a fair and equitable per cent of profit upon the time and amount of money invested. No one would think about going into a grocery store and asking the proprietor to give, without consideration, a pound of sugar. No one would even think of entering a dry goods store and ask to be given, gratis, a yard or so of muslin, or anything carried in stock by the store. Yet people will enter a newspaper office and ask for the publication, free, of matter that costs the publisher an actual outlay of time and money. A publisher pays in actual cash, for all the news published and in so doing he places a value on space. Matter that will directly or indirectly benefit the person desiring its publication is of monetary value to that person directly or indirectly. Many persons desire the insertion of an advertisement free on the ground that they take the paper. No more conclusive argument could be offered that the publication of the item is worth the fixed price of the publisher. If the paper is worth subscribing for and reading, its space is an assured article of value. Instead of people looking upon newspapers as a gratuitous medium, they should be practical and look upon them as they are, a commodity of usefulness and value.—Columbus (O.) Evening Dispatch.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, October 6th, 1892.

On the way to Paradise.

Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surroundings generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why should we voluntarily enslave the tortures of dyspepsia, when a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will rid us of the atrocious malady which—unless physicians are very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. Heartburn, biliousness, constipation and all the symptoms of this complaint are all extinguished by the Bitters, which also cures completely malaria, rheumatism, nervousness and debility. Since the appearance of "la grippe" it has shown a singular mastery over this formidable complaint that has carried off so many of our brightest and best.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Light-house.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Prescott are keepers of the Gov. Light-house at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and running nose. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain. She grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere handful of bones. Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two small bottles, she was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wegener's Drugstore.

Now that the time for spraying fruit trees is at hand it may interest our readers to know that the most killing chemical for all parasites protected by a shell is caustic soda, and that by far the strongest caustic soda is the 98% powdered.

Pure Caustic Potash, though not more destructive to insect life, is preferred by some fruit growers because potash is a fertilizer and more deliquescent than Soda.

Both of these articles have been highly recommended by Professor Hilgard, and used with remarkable success by some of our largest fruit growers, and both we may add, may easily be converted into any kind of soap, from Whale Oil to toilet.

Most of the lye commonly sold in small tins is but 60 Caustic Soda. A compound of pure Caustic Potash and Arseniate of Soda specially suited for pear, apple and apricot trees is sold by C. W. Jackson & Co., 5 Market street, San Francisco.

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equaled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me, I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jannemann, 33 William St., New York City.

A new road is being constructed by W. B. Pless leading direct from McGill's station to Embarcadero. A ferryboat has also been built to be used in crossing Sonoma creek. This road will shorten the distance between the several farms on the Senator Jones tract and Sonoma a number of miles.

W. H. Graves, who recently purchased the De Forrest and adjacent farms, has made many improvements on the same. Several miles of new fencing enclose the property, a fine large modern barn has been constructed and at present there is being laid out a half-mile race track on which will be speeded a number of Mr. Graves' splendid trotters.

Mr. J. L. Jas. McGuffin, Barney Conner, Dennis McCune and Wm. Troy, block-makers employed in the quarries north of town, were arrested by Constable Sparks last Thursday evening for being drunk and disorderly. The quartette filled up on cheap wine and engaged in a free fight in the northern part of town, but were too drunk to do each other much damage. After being arrested they were given free lodging in the lock-up. Yesterday morning the offenders were arraigned before Judge Cheney. McGuffin, Conner and Lane plead guilty to disturbing the peace and were fined $10 each by his Honor. Troy, however, entered a plea of not guilty, and it appearing to the Judge that he was more of a peace-maker between the belligerent block-makers, Troy was discharged from custody.

MORRIS VS. FREDERICKSON.

A Regular Pinafore Performance in Judge Cheney's Court.

The civil suit of Morris vs. Frederickson, to recover the sum of $40, alleged to be due the plaintiff by the defendant, came up for trial before Judge Cheney and a jury last Tuesday. The defense was represented by Judge Breitenbach, while the plaintiff, J. B. Morris, conducted his own case.

The cause of the suit was the old, old story of carelessness in the transaction of business, with the result that the parties to the suit had allowed their respective accounts against each other to run a number of years without settlement.

Mr. Morris introduced all his male relatives in the valley as witnesses, and as they filed into the Court room it reminded one of a veritable "Pinafore" performance, with the sisters, the cousins and the aunts eliminated and the male relatives, some half dozen in number, substituted in their stead, and the plaintiff in the role of Sir Joseph, K. B. C.

In the course of his closing argument to the jury the offended plaintiff got his sails set and told them what a good man he had been and what a villain the other fellow was. Warning up to his work he said Mrs. Frederickson, when he went to defendant's house for a settlement made use of language which he would not care to repeat to the jury, insinuating that the lady had sworn a Great Big D. He then tacked off on to other subjects of a personal nature and was rebuked by Judge Cheney. He then sat down and hauled in his sails in great indignation much to the amusement of the spectators.

The case finally went to the jury, who rendered a compromise verdict for plaintiff for $21, and the curtain was then rung down on the farce.

City Trustees Meeting.

At the regular monthly meeting of the City Trustees held last Wednesday evening the business transacted was of little importance, as everything that came up before that body for final action was either laid on the table or taken under advisement.

Trustee Seipp, who has an eye to the health of the town, recommended that the nuisance be abated which is being maintained by Mrs. Fouts, who is running her sewage into the open ditch which runs through her property and from thence into the very heart of the town. The matter was put into the hands of Marshal Sparks.

Trustee Litzius, the Von Bismarck of the Trustees of Sonoma, who is Chairman of the Cemetery Committee, reported that a new gate had been erected at the southern entrance to Mountain Cemetery at a cost of $60, that the new road through the grounds has been completed and that hitching posts will shortly be erected near the main entrance to the same.

Trustees Trudgen and Seipp endeavored to get the Board to take some decisive action in regard to constructing that bridge on Second street East at the Duhring crossing but were headed off by Trustee Litzius, who claimed that the Board had no right to go on with the work because Trustee Schocken, a member of the Street Committee, had not examined into the plans for constructing the bridge, and the matter was laid over until next Thursday when a special session will be held to discuss the proposition.

The petition of Mesdames Chart, Mary L. Shaw, Sophia T. Craig and O. J. McKennon, for the use of a part of the Pavilion on election day, was read by the clerk and granted.

A petition from C. Aguillon asking for the third time that the six drains connecting his premises with the open ditch on First street West be reopened, was received and upon motion was laid on the table.

A communication was received from H. N. Clement, attorney for the Vallejo heirs, requesting the Board to fix the water rates for the city. The Clerk was instructed to communicate with Mr. Clement, but aside from that no action was taken in the matter.

Col. E. J. Beane, representing the firm of Badlam Bros., San Francisco, addressed the Board in relation to lighting the town with gas. The matter was postponed to be taken up at the special meeting to be held next Thursday.

D. D. Davidson also appeared before the Board and asked that A. McCartney and other residents of San Francisco be granted the privilege of erecting a private vault in Mountain Cemetery. The request was taken under advisement. The Board then adjourned.

Vote for Somers B. Fulton for County Clerk. He is both honest and capable.

The right man for Sheriff is S. I. Allen.

GREAT HUNTING AND FISHING ACHIEVEMENT.

A City Nimrod Bags 96 Quail in One Shot and Catches 600 Pounds of Trout.

Joe McGiffin, a celebrated nimrod of San Francisco, was in town several days this week. Now, if there is anything Joe prides himself on it is his prowess as a mighty hunter and fisherman, and he made his advent into town laden down with shotgun and fishing tackle prepared to supply all his city friends with either a mess of trout or a brace of quail. He tried fishing but the "trouts" wouldn't bite. He then sallied forth in quest of quail and after walking a mile or so from town, he lay down under the cool, inviting shade of a live oak tree to rest, as the day was quite warm.

After resting a while he picked up his gun and again proceeded on his way. He had not gone far when he discovered an immense flock of quail all bunched together. Raising his gun he took a snap shot at the birds with both barrels and a result that the ground was literally strewn with dead and crippled quail. Picking up the birds he discovered that he had bagged just ninety-six. Not a bad beginning.

He then thought he would recross Sonoma creek in quest of rabbits. While crossing that stream he came upon a great school of trout, some of which would weigh at least eighteen pounds. Unfortunately he had left his fishing tackle at his hotel in Sonoma, but he was bound to have some of those fish anyhow.

Laying down his gun and seizing a large club he jumped into the creek, which is very shallow at this season of the year, and commenced chasing and clubbing the fish as they ran up a long riffle to take refuge in a deep hole. After indulging in this exciting sport for an hour or so he dropped the club for sheer exhaustion and commenced to gather up the trout he had clubbed to death. They were floating down stream, keel upward, by the score. Picking up the finest and largest and leaving those weighing less than five pounds behind, he discovered upon counting his fish and estimating their weight that Charley Ohm and his celebrated catch at Embarcadero last year, were not in it. He actually had slaughtered 60 trout that averaged ten pounds apiece. But he was in a dilemma. He was two miles from town with 600 pounds of trout on his hands, not to mention the seven dozen of quail, without cart or horse. An idea struck him. He would cache the fish and return to Sonoma for a hay wagon to haul the speckled beauties into town. The resolution had no sooner been formed than he suddenly jumped to his feet to carry it out when he awoke with a start—he had been dreaming. Joe had actually fallen asleep under that tree and the shades of night were gathering fast when he made his appearance in town without a feather or a fin.

DEATH OF JOE HUBSCH.

He Expires Very Suddenly from Apoplexy.

Joe Hubsch, well-known to the residents of Sonoma and vicinity, died at his home in Red Bluff, Tehama county, of apoplexy at 9 o'clock last Saturday morning. He went to bed the night preceding his death in his usual health, and slept till 11 o'clock, when his wife was awakened by his loud breathing and a peculiar sound in his throat. Thinking he had an attack of "night mare" she attempted to arouse him, but he did not move.

Mrs. Hubsch then got up and hastily lighting a lamp discovered that her husband was unconscious. A physician was summoned, who pronounced the case apoplexy. Everything was done to revive him, but he never regained consciousness.

Joe Hubsch resided in this place for ten years and was engaged in the saloon business. In the fall of 1883 he was attacked in his place of business in this city by Bill Webster, otherwise known as "the Terror of Sonoma county," a man of pronounced fighting proclivities. Although of a quiet and peaceable disposition, Joe Hubsch defended himself by shooting and killing his adversary. This unfortunate occurrence broke him up in business and a few years later on he located in Red Bluff, where he continued to reside with his family up to the time of his death.

The deceased was a native of Australia and would have been 44 years of age next month. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his untimely demise.

Serious Accident.

Ferdinand Bulotti, the twelve-year-old son of V. Bulotti, fell from a platform in his father's wine cellar in this place, Wednesday afternoon, and received internal injuries, which are considered very dangerous. The lad was at work on the platform, which was eight feet high, when by some means or another he stumbled and fell and pitched headlong to the ground. Upon being picked up he was found to have received a deep gash on the chin and injuries to his left side, which are of a very serious nature.

Price of Wine Grapes.

Much speculation is being indulged in as to what will be the price of wine grapes this season. Kohler & Frohling of Glen Ellen are offering $10 at the present time and J. Chauvet of the same place will give $9, but we have heard of no contracts at the above figures. Jacob Fridiger of Hillsdale has sold his crop to a Napa county winery for $13 per ton.

Mr. G. N. Whitaker brought to this office some Bellflower apples, which furnish a remarkable proof of the benefit of spraying the young fruit in the spring and the ill-effects of not spraying. From some cause a part of the fruit was missed in the spraying. It is covered with a crust of fungi, is not larger than a walnut and is warped and twisted into angles and knots. The fruit from the same tree where the spraying took effect was extra large, well shaped, beautiful in color and of rich flavor. With this object lesson as a proof, no one can deny the immense advantage in spraying fruit trees. The specimens were kindly left at the Democrat office. Call and examine them, for they are both instructive and curious.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 3, 1892

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

Which among the nations in the world is entitled to the credit of the first newspaper? The oldest journal in the world, according to Mr. Underhill, is the London Gazette, which appeared first in 1666. This of course is a very erroneous statement; but Mr. Underhill would have been quite accurate if he had said that the London Gazette was the first newspaper in England that ever inserted paid advertisements.

I remember many years ago turning up the first number of the London Gazette in the British museum and noting the advertisement of a patent medicine emanating from a firm which to the best of my belief was in existence in London less than twenty years ago.

That not very recent authority, "Haydn's Dictionary of Dates," tells us that the ancient Romans had daily newspapers called Acta Diurna, which were issued in 691 B. C.; that a journal called the Gazette was published in Venice about 1536, and that the first real newspaper published in England was The Public Intelligence, issued by Sir Roger L'Estrange in 1663. I should say myself that if exhaustive research were made it would be found that the Peking Gazette enjoyed an extensive circulation some thousands of years before Rome was founded.—London Times.

A Painful Decoration.

When Mr. Carnot travels he takes with him a collection of decorations and other distinctions for distribution among the notables of the towns he will pass through. The president of the republic in order to enhance the value of the decoration, is accustomed to pin it himself on the breast of the happy recipient. On his last provincial tour it appears that he made a mess of the operation. A statue had just been unveiled and the customary speeches delivered, when the persons to be decorated were invited to get onto the platform. Among them was a fat farmer to whom the Academic Palms were allotted. Mr. Carnot approached him and proceeded to pin the blue ribbon on his breast, but whether the pin was blunt or the cloth of the farmer's coat hard, he found the task difficult. However, at length he succeeded.

But judge of his surprise on seeing the farmer trembling and as pale as a ghost. He at first thought it was simply emotion, but the farmer getting worse General Brugere advanced and found that the pin had stuck in his breast, and that he was bleeding freely. To extract it was of course the work of a second, and the farmer recovered, but it will be a long time before he forgets the first day he wore his decoration.—London Globe.

So Sorry to Leave.

A tramp stood on the platform of the Santa Fe station at San Bernardino. A passenger train was all ready to leave. He gazed about the place sorrowfully, selected a soft looking brakebeam and swinging himself into a comfortable position on it prepared for the first stage of his journey. "All aboard," sang out the conductor and off went the train. It passed through bustling little and big towns, through the most charming valleys in the world, whirled by enormous orange groves and stretches of vineyard, by fields of strawberries and green peas, passing homes which were palaces, going through what every one admits is the most beautiful, the most fertile, most pleasing region on the footstool.

The tramp lay on his brakebeam enjoying the scene and regretting that the love of travel obliged him to leave such an earthly paradise. After several hours' ride the train entered quite a large town and slowed up as it approached the depot. "San Bernardino," called out the conductor. "Hang it!" said the tramp, as he climbed up from under the car and stood on the platform from which he had started a few hours before. He had taken a belt line Santa Fe train over the kite shaped track.—Pasadena (Cal.) Star.

Equal to the Emergency.

A citizen popped out into his garden at a very early hour, and turning a corner discovered Patrick in the act of digging up a lot of vegetables. Patrick, seeing the game was up, advanced toward the proprietor and said: "The top of the morning to your honor! And what brought your honor out so early this morning?"

"Indeed, Patrick, I just strolled out to see if I could find an appetite for my breakfast." Then, cying Patrick with some suspicion, he queried, "And now, Patrick, pray tell me what brings you out so early in the morning?"

"Indeed, your honor, I just strolled out to see if I could find a breakfast for my appetite."—Hartford Post.

An Anxious Youngster.

A youngster was anxious for a watch, and her grandmother had said, "When I die, Margaret, I shall give you my gold watch." A few weeks after she was visiting with her grandmother, and evidently longing for the time when she should receive her legacy started her relative greedily by saying, "Grandmother, when are you going to die and go into a hole, so I can wear my watch?"—New York Tribune.

"August Flower"

"I inherit some tendency to Dyspepsia from my mother. I suffered two years in this way; consulted a number of doctors. They did me no good. I then used Relieved In your August Flower and it was just two days when I felt great relief. I soon got so that I could sleep and eat, and I felt that I was well. That was three years ago, and I am still first-class. I am never Two Days without a bottle, and if I feel constipated the least particle a dose or two of August Flower does the work. The beauty of the medicine is, that you can stop the use of it without any bad effects on the system."

Constipation While I was sick I felt everything it seemed to me a man could feel. I was of all men most miserable. I can say, in conclusion, that I believe August Flower will cure anyone of indigestion, if taken Life of Misery with judgment. A. M. Weed, 229 Bellefontaine St., Indianapolis, Ind.
